ENYA OUT TO SHINE AT LUDLOW

By Ashley Iveson, Press Association

Enya has shown enough in four starts to suggest a race like the Radnor Hills Water Mares' Novices' Hurdle at Ludlow should be within her grasp. Jamie Snowden's four-year-old finished second to a subsequent Grade Two winner in La Luna Artista on her Warwick debut in November and has since run with credit in National Hunt Flat races at Catterick, Newton Abbot and Bangor. Having finished last season strongly, Snowden has continued his rich vein of form in early May and while Dan Skelton's Haydock winner First Candidate is the one to beat, Enya is in receipt of almost a stone in weight which is expected to tip the scales in her favour. Law Of Supply can give weight and a beating to a handful of rivals in the Radnor Hills Splash Handicap Chase. The Kim Bailey and Mat Nicholls-trained grey won twice over fences in the autumn of 2024 and while he subsequently lost his way, there have been signs of a resurgence in his last few races. He was not beaten far when fourth at Hereford in November and was in the process of running another big race at the same track a month later when falling at the final fence. Law Of Supply returned from over three months off the track at Wincanton in early April and his performance in finishing second to Broomfield Cave suggested a return to winning ways is imminent. Fergal O'Brien's Zucayan is something of a Ludlow specialist and has to be taken seriously in the Welsh Guards Association Handicap Hurdle. The nine-year-old has won three times and been placed on a further four occasions from nine visits to the Shropshire circuit, most recently finishing a distant second behind Wild Goose back in December. Time has shown there was no disgrace in that performance as having won off a mark of 103 that day, Wild Goose has struck again since and is now rated 122. Zucayan is rated only 21b higher than when winning this very race 12 months ago and looks certain to be involved in the finish. Claim Du Brizais has been a little disappointing over fences so far for the Skeltons, but is given another chance to prove her worth in the GC Rickards Mares' Handicap Chase. The six-year-old won a bumper and a novice hurdle last year but is nought from five since being switched to the larger obstacles. However, she is better than her latest effort at Warwick, when a bad mistake four from home put paid to her chances, and she can reward those who keep the faith. In Ireland, Pierre Bonnard is given the chance to re-establish his Epsom credentials in the Cashel Palace Hotel Derby Trial. The Camelot colt was favourite for the premier Classic during the winter months and while his reputation took a blow when he disappointed on his reappearance here four weeks ago, he is surely better than that.
