STARS LOOKS TO BE ALIGNED

AT MUSSELBURGH

By Anita Chambers, PA

Align The Stars can thrive returned to handicap company in the Virgin Bet Queen's Cup at Musselburgh. Trained by Charlie Johnston, the four-year-old won three times at that level last term, notably triumphing by a neck in an ultra-competitive event at Goodwood in the summer. That victory off a mark of 99 prompted his connections to raise their sights for a Lonsdale Cup run, but he fell short on the Knavesmire and again when pitched into the Group One Prix Royal-Oak on his final run of the campaign.

Dialled back to Listed company for his seasonal return last week, Align The Stars was beaten less than a length in third behind Al Qareem, albeit getting 5lb, and a repeat of that kind of form here should be good enough and gives him a fitness edge over some of his main rivals. Cover Up enjoyed a good winter in Dubai and can make a winning start back in Britain in the Virgin Bet Daily Price Boosts Scottish Sprint Cup Handicap.

Previously trained by the Gosdens, Cover Up moved to the Simon and Ed Crisford team at the end of last year and made an immediate impact for them when winning a Listed heat at Meydan in December. He subsequently made the frame at both Group Two and Three level with only a disappointing dirt run at Jebel Ali on his record, seeing his rating propelled back up to 101.

That means he must carry top-weight but he was beaten less than five lengths off that perch in the Wokingham last year which offers hope as this race is not quite of that calibre. Alzahir can complete a quick hat-trick in the Virgin Bet Every Saturday Money Back Silver Arrow Handicap.

The Jennie Candlish-trained gelding kept on well to land a competitive 15-runner Doncaster contest and then was a comfortable scorer at Thirsk, so is clearly in great spirits. Dan Skelton will try to gain ground on Willie Mullins at Haydock, with Le Milos gunning for the afternoon's highlight, the Unibet Middle Distance Veterans' Handicap Chase.

With over #51,000 on offer for first place, a victory for Le Milos could prove very valuable in the title hunt but he will have to bounce back from a lacklustre Aintree run earlier in the month. Upped to three miles and a furlong, he never looked like taking a hand in the finish but back to two and a half miles in veterans' company, Le Milos cannot be ruled out, with good ground not too much of a concern for the 2022 Coral Gold Cup winner.

Burrows Hall can complete his four-timer in the In Memory Of Ian Chambers Challenger Stayers Hurdle Series Final Handicap Hurdle. He has risen 17lb since kicking off his winning spree at Uttoxeter in February but his improvement shows no signs of stopping.
