Grey Dawning can double up in Betfair Chase

By Nick Grant, Press Association Sport

Grey Dawning is a strong fancy to join an illustrious roll of honour when he goes for back-to-back wins in the Betfair Chase. Kauto Star heads the list of horses with multiple victories in this Grade One affair, and while Grey Dawning is not in that class – not many are – he is most definitely one of the leading lights among British-trained staying chasers. He was on a different level to the rest here 12 months ago, absolutely cantering to a two-and-three-quarter-length success over dual winner Royale Pagaille. A third-place finish for the Dan Skelton-trained inmate in the Cotswold Chase led him into the Gold Cup, where he was fourth behind the imperious Gaelic Warrior. He finished his campaign with Grade One glory at Aintree and he looks the most reliable from this line-up to run his race, meaning he can start this season as he ended the last. Kingofthefrontier can show his win at Cheltenham last month was no fluke with a big run in the Betfair Supports Safer Gambling Week Newton Novices' Hurdle. The five-year-old was providing Cleveland-based trainer John Dawson with the most notable victory of his fledgling career to date when following up a low-key summer triumph at Southwell with a Grade Two strike. Haydock has different demands to Prestbury Park, but he jumped well there, which will not go amiss should it become a speed test, and while he has a 3lb penalty this race has been in the minds of connections since that win. Chris Gordon had a treble on this card last year and Kocktail Bleu – who ran well enough on his reappearance in October – is only 1lb higher than when hitting the mark at Newbury in March, making him a player in the Best Odds On The Betfair Exchange Handicap Hurdle. Nicky Henderson might be forgiven if he watches Lulamba at Ascot with his hands over his eyes, given the shock of Old Park Star bleeding at Ffos Las on Wednesday. Lulamba is one of the big guns for Seven Barrows and if all is anything like well with him then he should be too good for the rest in the Ladbrokes 1965 Ascot Chase, despite some reservations about the ground. Lucky Place might finally be able to get his head in front again in the Ladbrokes Ascot Hurdle. Henderson's seven-year-old is difficult to place, and it seems a while now since he took the Relkeel Hurdle at Cheltenham on the first day of 2025, looking a potential Stayers' Hurdle horse. He has mixed it with some good ones since then without success, but his third to Alexei over an inadequate trip at Aintree recently sets him up nicely for another crack at a race he won in 2024. Vanderpoel can go close to a course-and-distance double in the Vietti Barolo Hurst Park Handicap Chase. Not disgraced albeit fading in the Grand Annual in March, the Ben Pauling-trained seven-year-old underwent a wind operation before his return here last month, beating a familiar foe in Martator. A sound racing surface will suit and his trainer felt in the aftermath of that win he had further improvement in him.
