LINGFIELD DRAW:

Following a less predictable spell, the stands rail (high) has taken over again in the past couple of years. The one factor that can have a massive effect on the draw is heavy rainfall on to firm ground. Presumably because of the of the undulating nature of the track and the fact that the far rail on the straight course is towards the bottom of a slope where it joins the round course, rainfall seems to make the middle and far side ride a deal slower. In these conditions the top three or four stalls have a massive edge.

CATTERICK:

When the ground is testing, the stands’ rail is definitely the place to be, which suits high numbers in 5f races and high-draw prominent-racers at all other distances. However, when the grounds is good to firm or faster, horses draw on the inside (low) often hole the edge, and there have been several meetings over the last few seasons in which those racing prominently hardest against the inside rail have dominated (over all distances).

BATH DRAW:

The draw is of less importance than the pace at which races are run. In big fields, runners drawn low are often inclined to go off too fast to hold a rail position (the course turns left most of the way, including one major kink) and this can see hold up horses drawn wide coming through late. Conversely, in smaller fields containing little pace, up front and on the inside is often the pace to be.

KEMPTON:

High numbers are best over 5f and preferable over 6f, while those drawn very low over 7f often have a bit to do. Otherwise, pace of races counts for a lot and this is one of the fairest courses around in that respect.

DUBARA TO DELIVER AT THE SEASIDE

By Anita Chambers, Press Association Sport

Dubara let down favourite-backers last time out but should be given chance to redeem herself in the 188Bet Handicap at Yarmouth.

The three-year-old was stepping up to 10 furlongs for the first time at Salisbury, having previously run up to a mile, but she hindered her chances when breaking slowly and was left in last place.

Admittedly, when Dubara made her move to the front, it appeared to be a promising run but having given her six rivals a bit of a start, Luca Cumani's charge ran out of gas in the dying strides.

She was eventually beaten three-quarters of a length and a 4lb hike for that run, while far from ideal, is possibly fair as she did make up a chunk of ground.

Cumani steps back a furlong in trip here, but given a sharper start, Dubara certainly has the ability to make her mark.

Working Class is worth a small wager in the Read Silvestre De Sousa At 188Bet Median Auction Maiden Stakes.

Peter Chapple-Hyam's charge made a favourable impression when fifth on his racecourse bow at the back-end of last year but he did not actually make the track again until reappearing at Salisbury two weeks ago.

Gelded in the interim, Working Class turned in an eye-catching effort in finishing third, albeit beaten six lengths by See Of Rome.

Working Class was just found out for race fitness at the finish, lacking the required extra gear and being edged out for second in the shadow of the post.

The Bahri colt has enough about him to win an event like this before switching to the handicapping route.

World Record can return to winning form in the Open Golf Betting At 188Bet Handicap.

Triumphant at Brighton last September, Mick Quinn's charge has only had the one run so far this year, running well enough to finish second back at the seaside track in May.

He was returning from a six-month break on that occasion but his absence was clearly not too much of issue as he featured so prominently at the business end of the race.

That bodes well for his claims here and he is certainly on a very workable mark of 58.

Project Bluebook catches the eye as he returns to the Flat in the Turmeric Handicap at Catterick.

The four-year-old has been performing with real credit over hurdles for John Quinn, finishing fourth in the Fred Winter at Cheltenham before going on to Grade Two glory at Fairyhouse in April.

He was no slouch on the Flat last year, either, winning three times, and his rating of 80 could prove to be quite lenient with the trip holding few fears.

Hearty went into a few notebooks when third on his first start for Richard Rowe and is fancied to go a couple of places better in the British Grand Prix Betting At 188Bet Handicap at Lingfield.
