Torrent can keep flowing at Exeter

By Nick Robson, Press Association

Exeter's season finally gets under way on Sunday where Torrent looks the best bet on the card in the Chris Down A Lifetime In Racing Novices' Limited Handicap Chase. The summer drought and unseasonably dry autumn has seen the Devon track lose its first four fixtures of the campaign but recent rain has sufficiently eased the going to enable racing to resume. Torrent only ran eight days ago but he was an absolutely effortless winner at Uttoxeter. He had been running like his turn was not far away with a few placed efforts over hurdles but this time he made a mockery of a mark of 108 on his first run over fences. Obviously life could be more tricky off his revised rating of 117 but there is every chance he is just going to be much better over the bigger obstacles and the five-year-old's confidence could not be higher. Jamie Snowden's Handlethekettle can turn the tables on Washington in the Happy 70th David Clements Handicap Hurdle. The pair met at Wetherby last time out when Washington came clear after the final flight to win by three and a half lengths. However, Handlethekettle didn't jump the last two cleanly and it was reported he lost a shoe. Factor in a 5lb turnaround at the weights and there are plenty of reasons to believe the in-form Snowden will be celebrating another winner. Joe Tizzard is increasingly turning to Dylan Johnston in the absence of the injured Brendan Powell and they can combine to great effect with Our Peggy at Fakenham. The five-year-old mare opened her account at the fifth time of asking at Worcester last time out and while it was only by a narrow margin, she had shown enough last season to suggest she was capable. With that under her belt hopefully her confidence is on the rise ahead of the acingtv.com/freetrial – Last Day Mares' Handicap Hurdle. James Owen's Scotto won two bumpers which is never easy to do and while he was beaten on his hurdling debut, he should take all the beating in the Get A Free Trial Of Racing TV Now Maiden Hurdle. Third at Huntingdon last time out, he did little wrong there before just being run out of things close home but he jumped like he is more than capable of winning at the right level. Chosen Hero looks another likely type for Owen in the Jumps Looks Better On Racing TV Mares' Handicap Chase. Pulled up on her final three outings for Lizzie Quinlan, she joined Owen with a basement mark of 79 and she took full advantage at Lingfield. Upped 6lb, she is still some way below her career-high mark of 109. There is Grade One action in Ireland over at Punchestown where Fact To File might just get the better of his Gold Cup-winning stablemate Gaelic Warrior in his revenge mission in the John Durkan Memorial Chase. Fact To File won in 2024 but went down by a neck last year having looked the likely winner. He is one of the main reasons Harry Cobden took the JP McManus job.
