PIPERS TO HIT WINNING NOTE AGAIN

By Anita Chambers, PA

Pipers Note has to merit close inspection in the David Chapman MemorialHandicap at Ripon.Last year's winner has got his head in front eight times in total at the NorthYorkshire rcuit,seven of them over the course and distance, also winning thisevent in 2014.Racing off a mark of 89 when successful 12 months ago - and in 2014 - he hasbeen victorious off as high as 103 in his pomp and arrives for this assignmentsome 4lb lower than last year.That is because his form ailed off, but there have been signs of a revival oflate - most notably on his penultimate start here - and there is no doubting howmuch winning her late grandfather's race means to trainer Ruth Carr, so hecannot be dismissed.Livvys Dream can be backed in the Bank Holiday Family Day 26th AugustHandicap.The Charlie Hills-trained filly was last seen at Chelmsford in May, where therewas a fair bit to take from her defeat to Grand Inquisitor, who has won again since and been narrowly touched off a couple of times. The Declaration Of War filly was keen through the early stages and still hadeverything in front of her when the winner stole a ch.To her credit she came through to put down a challenge, but was never able toquite get on terms, while at the same time finishing well clear of the third.It will be interesting to see how she goes on the back of her break.It is Carlisle's annual ladies-only card and Indomeneo can take a starring rolefor Megan Nicholls in the Glo Like A Winner Handicap (Pro-Am Lady Riders'Race). The Richard Fahey-trained four-year-old has been in good shape this year andwon with a bit ore authority than the winning margin would suggest at Haydocklast month.Having travelled werfully just behind the pace, he quickened two furlongs outto go clear and was always doing enough to hold the runner-up, even though thedeficit was reduced to a neck at the line.The booking of Nicholls makes him a confident selection.Laafy perhaps did not enjoy the test posed byGoodwood last time out, butshould not be discounted in the Matchbook Betting Podcast Handicap at Kempton.Sir Michael Stoute's charge had previously shaped well when second on his handicap debut at York, with a 2lb rise not looking unreasonable given thecompetitive nature of that heat.It is worth giving him the benefit of the doubt on Goodwood and rolling the dice again here.Affluence has been in great form for trainer Martin Smith, winning his last two, and has solid claims of bringing up the hat-trick in the Galliard HomesHandicap at indsor.He had two runs over hurdles in the spring but has won at Yarmouth and then off 2lb higher at Leicester the last twice.Up another 4lb, there may be more to come.
