OH THIS LOOKS A GOOD BET

By Keith Hamer, Press Association Sport

Oh This Is Us can land a rare success all-weather by taking the feature sunracing.co.uk Conditions Stakes at Wolverhampton.Richard Hannon's six-year-old has come a long way since he was third on this course in December 2015, on what was his third career start.A winner at Chelmsford the following April, Oh This Is Us made the last of his four previous appearances on the all-weather in a Lingfield handicap in October 2016.Since then, he has gone to compete in top handicaps and acquit himself with credit at Pattern-race level.He landed a Listed event at Chester in July and was placed in a couple of Group Two races at Doncaster and Longchamp, and was sixth in that grade in Italy in October on his last outing.This race looks an ideal starting point with Ryan Moore booked and could herald a lucrative campaign.Prerogative can follow up a recent Chelmsford success with victory in the Betway Casino Handicap.Tony Carroll's five-year-old put up a decent performance when landing a 16-runner event by three-quarters of a length from Don't Drop It at the Essex track.Solar Park can make it third time lucky in the Betway Novice Median Auction Stakes after two runs at Newcastle in January.James Tate's three-year-old was only beaten a length on his debut and appeared not to be suited by the pace of the race on his second start. He is definitely worth another chance.Swiss Chime blotted her copybook when last of six at Kempton last time out, having earlier made all to score over the minimum distance at Southwell.Dean Ivory's three-year-old filly can bounce back in the Ladbrokes Handicap having been keen enough early on at Kempton.The handicapper has dropped her a couple of pounds, too, which will help. Secret Lightning looks the safest option in the Sunracing.Co.UK All Weather ``Hands And Heels'' Series Apprentice Handicap.Mick Appleby has booked the services of the promising Cieren Fallon and the seven-year-old has been consistent, albeit at a lowly level.Not seen since Pontefract in May, a switch of headgear may bring out a bit more.There is an extra meeting at Chelmsford where John Gosden's Gantier should finally get off the mark in the Irish Lotto At Totesport.com Maiden Stakes. The Frankel gelding has been second the last twice and looks to have bumped into two above average recruits.Gosden has reached for the blinkers for the first time and he is unlikely to find a better opening.Cracking Destiny has been put up 9lb for winning at Wincanton three weeks ago - but it may not be enough to stop Ian Williams' runner carrying on the good work in the Gold Cup Lunch On 15th March 15 Novices' Limited Handicap Chase at Taunton.
