FIZZY LOOKS TO HAVE LINGFIELD SPARKLE

By Molly Hunter, Press Association

Far Too Fizzy can make a winning return to Lingfield in the Bet #10 Get #40 With BetMGM Handicap. Trained by David Loughnane for owner-breeder Dave Lowe, the three-year-old has been busy on the all-weather through the winter when switching between seven-, six- and five-furlong trips. Two wins have been among those efforts, one of which came in a six-furlong Lingfield contest in January where he came home five and a half lengths to the good. He went close when third, beaten less than a length, last time out at the same course and is no higher in the handicap when turning up at this circuit again to drop down to five furlongs. These silks are often seen on speedy horses and Far Too Fizzy's dam was a winner over five furlongs, so her son should have the requisite speed at a track he clearly appreciates. At Fontwell Ronnies Reflection can strike for Ben Case in the betstgeorge.com Top Prices On English Events Handicap Chase. In six runs this season the eight-year-old has finished out of the top three only twice when contesting handicap chases over trips varying from two and a half miles to three and a quarter miles. The latter trip may have been a bridge too far, but this intermediate distance looks likely to suit him better and the forecast rain in the area will do his chances no harm either. Dan Skelton's Unknown Entity is the pick in the England To Win Tonight 20/1 betstgeorge.com Maiden Hurdle. A former Willie Mullins inmate, the six-year-old ran encouragingly when starting out this season after a long break away from the track. His most recent effort was a fifth-placed run in the competitive EBF Final at Sandown and as he looks to have plenty to offer still he should be threat with a little less on his plate here. Chris Gordon's Superstylin has hardly put a foot wrong all term and can bring that consistent form to the table in the betstgeorge.com With Daily St George Specials Chase Series Final. The winner or runner-up of five races this season, he has been fruitfully campaigned in handicap chases all season and posted arguably his best effort when winning a two and a quarter mile chase at this track by 19 lengths on Boxing Day. He steps up a furlong and a half on return to the same circuit and can get his head in front under Tom Cannon. Anthony Honeyball's Juggernaut is another horse to pocket plenty of prize-money this season, and though a win has been elusive he can put that right in the Bet St George Supports Safer Gambling Handicap Hurdle.
