JONBON LOOKS ROCK SOLID IN TINGLE CREEK

By Anita Chambers, PA

Jonbon is a rightfully short price to secure back-to-back victories in the Betfair Tingle Creek Chase at Sandown. Nicky Henderson's charge overcame heavy ground to take the title 12 months ago, with the result never in doubt after taking up the lead before the last and comfortably holding Edwardstone by just under three lengths. He then suffered a shock defeat in a rescheduled Clarence House Chase at Cheltenham in January, although the fact he nearly came down four fences from home accounts for that reverse, before bouncing back with Grade One wins at Aintree and Sandown - having been forced to miss the Festival. Jonbon then extended the winning run to three on his reappearance in the Shloer Chase, when he had the reopposing Boothill and Edwardstone in behind and while he had to work a bit harder than expected on the run to the line, it was a bold front-running performance on his first start of the year and improvement is surely likely. L'Eau Du Sud is another who has shown versatility in terms of ground and is on a roll ahead of the Betfair Henry VIII Novices' Chase. A fair performer over hurdles, he looks to be an even better chasing prospect having dotted up at Stratford before adding a wide-margin Grade Two victory at Cheltenham last time out. This is another step up in class but Dan Skelton holds his charge in the highest regard and he does have a slight edge on the ratings. Gaboriot can turn around Grand Sefton form with King Turgeon as the pair lock horns again in the BoyleSports Becher Handicap Chase at Aintree. Four and a quarter lengths separated the pair when they finished first and third over the Grand National fences in early November, racing off level weights over a distance of two miles and five furlongs. Given Gaboriot has won up to an extended four miles in hunter chase company, that trip was very much on the short side for Oliver Greenall and Josh Guerriero's charge and he was putting in all his best work at the finish. Now back over a more suitable trip of three and a quarter miles, and getting 2lb from King Turgeon, Gaboriot can reverse those positions, with the prospect of very testing ground of no concern either. Quantock Hills is the pick in the BoyleSports Acca Boost Juvenile Hurdle. He built on an initial British second to run out a seven-length winner at Fontwell on his most recent start and while he has a bit to find with Liam Swagger, Quantock Hills is proven on testing ground in France, which could prove crucial given the weather outlook. No Hubs No Hoobs will relish the testing ground in Chepstow's Coral Welsh Grand National Trial Handicap Chase. He won three heavy ground staying contests at the backend of last season and did not run a bad race on his first outing this term, coming home fourth on going that was much quicker than ideal at Wincanton last month.
