D'ORHY LOOKS THE RIGHT PIC IN ASCOT CHASE

By Anita Chambers, PA

Pic D'Orhy can successfully defend his Betfair Ascot Chase title for Paul Nicholls. While the recent form of the Ditchheat team has been mixed, a few have run well enough to win or be placed and Pic D'Orhy will certainly be at home back in Berkshire. His Ascot record is pretty impressive, with fours wins in eight starts over both fences and hurdles, including a five-and-a-half-length triumph over the reopposing L'Homme Presse in this race last year. Pic D'Orhy went on to disappoint when pulled up at Aintree but he returned to action with a win this term, making all to easily beat three rivals over the same two miles and five furlongs he faces here. Admittedly the calibre of rival here is much higher and missing his intended run at Windsor last month was not ideal, but Pic D'Orhy is a proven performer in a test like this and he could be a touch too speedy for the likes of last year's second and the Gold Cup hope Corbetts Cross. Jingko Blue is another to meet with a familiar rival in the Ebony Horse Club Reynoldstown Novices' Chase. Nicky Henderson's charge was an impressive winner on his chasing debut at Uttoxeter in December and followed up with Grade Two victory over Lowry's Bar in the Hampton Novices' Chase at Windsor last month. Just over two lengths separated the pair that day and although it could be argued a mistake from Lowry's Bar at the third-last cost him dearly, Jingko Blue's round of jumping was also far from perfect and leaves room for improvement. Jingko Blue has to concede 5lb this time due to that win, but he still looks to be learning his trade and his Windsor win proved he stays this three-mile trip. Snipe should give his supporters a good run for their money in the Betfair Swinley Handicap Chase. He ran his usual, consistent race when third in the Great Yorkshire Chase and a similar effort should put him in the mix. Golden Ace can return to winning form as she drops back in trip for the BetMGM Kingwell Hurdle at Wincanton. She remains the only horse to have beaten Brighter days ahead when winning the Mares' Novices' Hurdle at the Festival last year, the undoubted highlight of an unbeaten four-race novice campaign. Jeremy Scott has twice tried to stretch her to two and a half miles this term, but on both occasions she has been outstayed at the finish. Given her only Cheltenham option at two miles would be a clash with Constitution Hill in the Champion Hurdle, it is understandable that connections wanted to explore the possibility of a longer trip, but she can now show her true worth back at the minimum distance. Royale Pagaille's presence in the Oddschecker Grand National Trial Handicap Chase at Haydock means plenty are wrong at the weights, but Apple Away is one of those to race off her correct mark on 10st 2lb. She takes a leap back up in distance to an extended three and a half miles here but has slowly worked her way into form, with her recent Newbury second offering plenty of hope, along with the fact the Haydock ground should not be too deep. Beauport can complete his Grand National preparations with victory in the WKD Rendlesham Hurdle. Nigel Twiston-Davies' charge hacked up over fences at Ascot in November and a subsequent crack at Grade One company in the Long Walk Hurdle nearly resulted in an unexpected triumph as he was beaten just a length and a half by Crambo. The conditions of this race put Beauport at a distinct advantage with his main rivals and he can exploit that to the full.
