WISDOM SHOULD PREVAIL AT DONCASTER

By Molly Hunter, Press Association

Tales Of Wisdom can make his mark in the Stonehouse Travel Agents Barnsley Novice Stakes on the opening weekend of the British Flat turf season at Doncaster. Trained by Charlie Appleby for Godolphin, the three-year-old Blue Point gelding is a half-sibling to a smart horse in stablemate Bold Style and made his debut on the all-weather at Southwell in December. An 11-length victory there was certainly visually impressive, and although the quality of the field is not especially distinguished he probably had more still in hand. He will carry a penalty as a result of the victory but his debut promised plenty and he can deliver on Town Moor. On the same card Juan Les Pins can mount a challenge in the William Hill Price Boosts Every Day Handicap over five furlongs. A winter on the all-weather has brought about mixed results, but most of the nine-year-old's winning has been done on turf and he has the benefit of coming into the new season both fit and in good form having won his last outing at Newcastle. On Ascot's final meeting of the jumps season, West Hill Verde can build on recent efforts to take the Ascot Racecourse Supports Horse Rangers Hampton Maiden Hurdle. Trained by Seamus Mullins, the six-year-old has collected a string of placings this season but is yet to get his head in front over hurdles. At Newbury in November he was notably third behind Act Of Innocence and Sinnatra, both of whom performed with credit at the Cheltenham Festival when second and fifth in the Turners and the County Hurdle respectively. The Planteur gelding was most recently seen contesting the Grade Two Premier Novices' Hurdle, where he was the third-placed horse when conceding ground with a stumble on landing a handful of flights from home. He steps up in trip and down in grade at Ascot, and can gain a first success after several fair attempts. Jamie Snowden's Senator can land the Sodexo Live! Juvenile Handicap Hurdle on the same Ascot card. The Doctor Dino chestnut has done little wrong all season, learning the ropes over hurdles with a third-placed run on debut, a second-placed second sighting and then a win when most recently seen at Market Rasen. Better still is expected now he goes handicapping. Joe Tizzard's admirable veteran Copperhead can do connections proud again in the Sodexo Live! Veterans' Handicap Chase. The 12-year-old is a high-quality horse who showed he still has it when winning a veterans' event at Newbury last time out by a neck, and prior to that was in the mix when unseating in the Sandown veterans' chase final. He is evidently still enjoying his racing, and in a small field he can shine again.
