ANAMIKA CAN PROVE CHELMSFORD BLOCKBUSTER

By Nick Grant, PA

Anamika might be worth waiting for late on at Chelmsford, where she goes in the first division of the Sky Bet Extra Places Every Day Handicap. Trained by Marco Botti, the Profitable filly went close here on the second of her two starts in the summer, before being off until returning in November, again on duty in Essex. Sent to the front by Marco Ghiani, she moved nicely over the majority of the seven furlongs until the useful-looking Space Trooper swept past them all. Although tiring into fourth, Botti's charge was not disgraced and with that run under her belt, this first move into handicaps makes her of real interest, as does the return to a mile.

At the other end of the card, Renesmee is a model of consistency and should again run her race in the Sky Bet For The Fans Handicap. Six starts for Alice Haynes since joining her yard in August have seen her out of the first four just once and that was on her latest start. However, there are reasons to mark that Lingfield fifth place up a bit, as she had a fair bit to do with her challenge after swinging wide off the bend. She still ran on well enough to suggest there is another race in her.

Jolly Jack Tar can make it two from three in the Racing Is Everyone's Sport Novice Stakes for John and Thady Gosden. Gelded before seeing the racetrack and unraced at two, he struck on the second of two starts back in February, looking a really nice galloping sort in doing so. Presumably something must have gone awry after that for him to have been off so long, but if he is ready to go, then he is worth following both here and for a nice handicap next year. Acklam Express can get his head in front again in the five-furlong Sky Bet Club Handicap.

The days of the now six-year-old mixing it with the sprinting big guns for Nigel Tinkler have gone, but he is still capable of making his presence felt at a lower level. He moved to Clive Cox in October 2023, but only had one run before being off for 230 days prior to returning at Goodwood in May this year. It was not long before Cox had him winning again and his recent run at Southwell after a 95-day break showed his current mark of just 80 - he was rated 110 at his peak - is still within his compass. At Wincanton, it is probably best to follow what looks the obvious contender in the Weatherbys Hamilton Amateur Jockeys' Handicap Chase. And that is No No Tango, who will be having a first start for Harry Derham, with none other than Patrick Mullins booked for the ride.
